“Building a common space for higher education, innovation, science and technology”
The Book of the Brussels Academic Summit between the EU and the CELAC

On the 8th & 9th of June 2015, the academic communities of Europe and Latin America and the Caribbean held in Brussels their 2d “Academic bi-regional Summit” in order to work out common proposals to be submitted to the Heads of State and Government of the 61 States participating to the 8th EU-LAC Summit held also in Brussels on the 10th and 11th June 2015. “Shaping our common future: working for prosperous, cohesive and sustainable societies for our citizens” was the headline for this 8th bilateral summit. The main purpose of this 2d Academic Summit was to contribute to meet the challenges faced by both societies by stimulating the active contribution from the academic community for building “a Euro-Latin American-Caribbean common space for higher education, science, technology and innovation”. Active efforts were undertaken for being as representative as possible, trying to attract the whole academic communities, from students to Rectors, but preserving as much as possible the bottom-up, independent and participative character of the initiative, without being financed by the EU institutions but essentially by the participants themselves with some limited supports from Belgian and Academic institutions, as the ICHEC, the VUB, the Egmont Institute, the City of Brussels, the Flemish government, the Walloon/Brussels Federation and a few others.

This second Academic Summit gathered around 500 participants from 300 universities or academic centers from 48 countries. These participants reached to issue a consensual communiqué which was delivered to the Heads of State and Government in Brussels. The immediate result was that the Heads of State and Government decided, in their Brussels Declaration and Action Plan, to open a specific chapter dedicated to strengthen the bi-regional academic cooperation and connecting this cooperation with the other cooperation instruments and chapter of their EU-CELAC Action Plan. Therefore, the construction of this common space for higher education, innovation, science and technology is now an official goal of the Strategic Alliance both regions want to reach.

As it was the case after the first Academic Summit a Memory Book collecting the main outputs and Declarations of the event was worked out by a few voluntary members of the “Local Organizing Committee – LOC” and of the “Academic Permanent Forum – FAP”.

The event to which the VUB, the EGMONT Institute and IRELAC/ICHEC invite you this 14th December points to give more explanation about the momentum of this strategic cooperation both regions need for meeting the new challenges of their sustainable development.
